

The SAM Launch

SAM Launch 01-02; Subject: AFMIC Unveils Internet Web Site.

1. To meet the needs of their diverse consumer group, the Armed Forces Medical Intelligence Center (AFMIC) recently completed the configuration and testing of a controlled-access Internet web site for dissemination of unclassified medical intelligence. Although they strongly encourage their customers to access both classified and unclassified AFMIC products available on Intelink and Intelink-S, they recognize that easy access to unclassified medical intelligence is important for medical planners.
2. Since the intelligence provided on the new web site is for official US government use only, domain filtering and public key infrastructure (PKI) encryption technology have been implemented to provide secure access. Customers may access the web site only from computers operating on .mil or .gov networks.
3. Access to the web site may be gained through the following Internet address: <http://mic.afmic.detrack.army.mil>. The initial screen provides two options -- new user registration and access to existing accounts. New users will be directed to a registration form that, upon submission, will be forwarded to AFMIC's Operations staff for validation. Those requesting new accounts will be notified of approval by email.
4. Any questions or concerns relating to configuration and content issues should be directed to the web site administrators at (301) 619-2181/3845, DSN 343-2181/3845, or by unclassified email message to "support@afmic.detrack.army.mil". Any questions or concerns regarding web site account administration should be directed to AFMIC-Operations at (301) 619-7574, DSN 343-7574, or by email message to "afmicops@afmic.detrack.army.mil".
